Although the exterior of the new Generation II water tank by Free Form has impressive features such as a ribbed design atop the tank and tie down lugs which allow for such things as security while transporting and stability while filling. The new Generation II has more to offer than meets the eye. The tank wall is formed using a two stage process: an outer white layer which helps to maintain a lower temperature by reflecting the sun's rays and therefore helps to maintain the tank's structural integrity and an inner black layer which prevents penetration of UV rays and as a result eliminates algae formation.

Now you can benefit from the best of both worlds. The Generation II water tank by Free Form Plastic Products Inc. Pick up your new water tank today! To inquire about the new Generation II
